Principles of Drug information and Scientific Literature Evaluation

by Frank J. Ascione, Pharm.D., Ph.D., Carol Colvin Manifold, Pharm.D., and Mary A. Parenti, Pharm.D.

Drug information centers are now located around the world. The impact of drug information may be felt at every level from the individual patient's bedside to the national health care system. As health care resources become more limited, emphasis has increased on the critical analysis of available information regarding possible treatments. We created this new reference book to reflect these and other changes in drug information practice, as well as to provide a more extensive discussion of scientific literature evaluation.

From Preface
